Constantinople, 7th. The Italian Consul at Tripoli having beaten a sentinel, the Turkish Government has sent a note to Italy, asking for reparation.

Paris 8th. Gambetta's family have requested that the body shall be brought to Nicos and interred there, where his mother is buried, who died a few months ago.

The friends of the deceased oppose this project, and are making efforts to ensure the burial of the body in the Capital.

London 8th. The Prime Minister, Mr. Gladstone, is much indisposed. Still his illness inspires no fear whatever.

Madrid 8th. The Cabinet decided over by Sr. Sagasta, have resigned "en masse." It is likely that Sr. Sagasta will be again called on to form a new Cabinet.

LATEST NEWS

PRESS TELEGRAMS.

The following epitomes of the latest news by telegraph from all quarters, is taken from our colleagues.

Montevideo, 9th. The Divisio Oficial publishes the Custom House regulations for privileged steamers.

R. Arceaga has resigned his seat in the Penitentiary Commission.

Suarez took his post as P. M. yesterday, and began by turning out employees, and others will follow.

Storm on Friday did great damage in Canelones. Roofs and walls blown down by the storm; also Carr's house. Fire in Tiziano's barna yesterday, but not much damage done.

93 Fahrt, in the shade.

Rain again general in the city, but not enough to get right.

29,000 kilos of ore from Rioja are arrived for export.

Public health very bad, and rainy deaths.

THE NEW CITY JUDICIAL.

Yesterday the National Government named the new Justices of the Peace for the City, whose names we give at foot. In our great political interests we cannot say to what party these gentlemen belong, but suppose they are all "Nationalists." The country Governor Rocha published last night his list of Camp Justices of the Peace, which astonished the people in the country districts, who were surprised for such a complete change from the Provincial politics, all the new Justices of the Peace for the country being advanced Mitristas.

Advanced Mitristas, however, look less to the politics of the Judge than to the credit and standing of the man; and it must be admitted that in the country parts the most respectable candidates are of the old Mitrista party. To Governor was not far away when he was up his list.

Although the post of Juez de Paz, whether in a country town or in the city parish is the same, still there is a very wide difference between their influence, position and jurisdiction. The country Judge is a species of Nobility, with the city Justice is but a paragon of the day with far less jurisdiction than a "senior."

The real importance, therefore, to be attached to these New Year appointments centres on the camp; and whether for better or worse, Governor Rocha has confirmed all the rural superiority of his provinces to the hands of a party to which up to last week he had opposed.

These appointments and many other minor matters point to the reopening of a political campaign, the outcome of which cannot for a moment be doubted. A very strong political position is raising its head, which, if all, is a far healthier sign than a silence.

The newspapers are again taking lead, and some of them remarkable for bitter articles against the Government, but the country marches on to politics and intrigue.

The following is the list of the Justices of the Peace for the City. Those acquainted with Mr. Suarez's five services will be well pleased to find his name figure on the list.

Several bodies have been found in the snow, five small fatalities having occurred in East Yorkshire alone, and other persons are missing. The list of casualties to shipping is also very grave.

A liberal meeting at Saddleworth recently protested by resolution against the granting of pecuniary rewards to commanders of our forces in the late Egyptian campaign. The resolution was unanimously adopted, and the speaker, Mr. W. L. Lawson, who writes to say that he agrees with its terms. He can see no reason why special rewards should be given to men "who had only fulfilled the ordinary duty of their calling."

A terrible accident occurred yesterday at the Adam's furnaces, near Barrow. Whilst dealing with a huge mass of slag a workman struck his pickaxe into a dynamite charge embedded in the slag, the presence of which was not suspected. By the explosion which immediately followed two men were blown to pieces and four others grievously injured.

A fire occurred yesterday in the extensive premises of Messrs. William Graham & Co., East India merchants, Glasgow, and before it was extinguished damage to the extent of £10,000 was done.

An application made on Thursday to the President of the Liverpool Court led his Lordship to make a general statement of the law which he considered a condition of the law which in his opinion is a serious grievance to women. Counsel for the petitioner in a suit for the restoration of conjugal rights asked for an attachment against Mr. John Orrell Lever, M.P., because, after a decree had been made in the petitioner's favour, Mr. Lever provided the respondent with shelter, thereby "assisting her to evade the jurisdiction of the Court." There was an affidavit that Mr. Lever desired to obstruct the jurisdiction of the Court, and Sir James Hannen, after making the obvious remark that the lady must live somewhere, said, "I do not wonder at an one assisting a woman to resist a jurisdiction which exists in this Court only, and which I wish did not exist here, namely, the power of committing a woman to prison, does not seem to a husband, who also does not wish to live with her." The application was refused.

It is stated in the Freeman's Journal that Mr. Davitt intends serving Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Trevelyan with subpoenas to give evidence as to the influence of the land agitation upon the government in passing the Land Act and Arrears Bill. Sir Joseph Stansfeld, Mr. Trevelyan's private secretary, has been asked to give evidence as to the influence of the land agitation upon the government in passing the Land Act and Arrears Bill. The census of the last Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Dr. Pate, was taken yesterday in the cathedral church at Addington, with every mark of the solemn and august occasion which the funeral was their duty. His Highness the Duke of Devonshire and the Duke of Albany, with representatives of the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and other members of the Royal Family, many bishops and clergy members of Parliament, and university dignitaries. The funeral service was conducted by the parish clergyman. The benediction was pronounced by the Archbishop of York.

Yesterday morning the condition of Mr. Foxworth was on the whole encouraging. Last night the bulletin was even more satisfactory. The graver symptoms were subsiding, and the patient was making favourable progress.

The trial of Patrick Higgins for the murder of Lord Ardilaun's two balliffs at Clough, Dublin, is deferred till the 11th inst. In the meantime the prisoner's counsel urged that the dead was committed by Kerrigan (the chief Crowe witness) himself, acting under the influence of the Land League in its most criminal form. Two Irish-speaking girls (one the prisoner's daughter) were examined and said that Kerrigan actually shot the balliffs, and that the prisoner was totally innocent of the crime. The case was not concluded when the Court adjourned to this morning.

A town's meeting, convened by the Mayor in response to a requisition signed by 5,000 persons, was held last evening in the St. Andrew's Town Hall, in support of the Ship Canal project. The members for the borough (Messrs. Arncliffe and Arnold) were present and proposed and seconded a resolution to the effect that in the interest of the increasing commerce and population of the district it was essential that some change should be made in the constitution of the Corporation, to obtain powers to enable them to subscribe to the capital of the undertaking, but ultimately it was passed, with three or four dissentients.

It has now been ascertained that the great movement of Wednesday has caused the loss of many lives. Several bodies have been found in the snow, five small fatalities having occurred in East Yorkshire alone, and other persons are missing. The list of casualties to shipping is also very grave.

GREAT FIRE IN LONDON

DAMAGE, A MILLION AND A QUARTER. RYLANDS & SONS' WAREHOUSE DESTROYED.

A calamitous fire occurred in London yesterday morning. The Standard of the day has the following account of the disaster:—Early this morning a fire broke out in the City, and as far as can be seen at present the damage done is greater than has been caused by any single conflagration since the great Tinsley-street fire, twenty years ago. The scene of the fire is within a few hundred yards of that which took place at Chertsey, causing destruction of valuable property, about eighteen months ago, and it is in the heart of that part of commercial London in which most of the large warehouses devoted to the three trades are situated. The block of buildings in which the fire broke out, and which has been already almost entirely gutted, is bounded on the north by London Wall, on the south by Abchurch-lane, on the east by Philip Lane, and on the west by Wood-street, and is occupied by Messrs. Rylands and Sons, the well-known general warehousemen, of Manchester, Bradford, Glasgow, &c. Messrs. Rylands and Sons, Co., history, gloves, shawl, mantle, and ribbon merchants; Messrs. Silber and Fleming, manufacturers and importers of fancy goods; Messrs. Sargood, Butler, and Nichol, shippers and others. All of the firms above mentioned have been heavy sufferers by the fire, and several other persons occupying smaller portions of the block have sustained considerable loss. The fire appears to have been first discovered in the premises of Messrs. Foster, Porter, and Co., facing Abchurch-lane. A policeman was patrolling his beat in this street when his attention was attracted by an unusual glare in one of the windows of the warehouse in question, and immediately afterwards he saw flames burst forth. He raised the alarm at once, and in a few minutes a detachment of the Fire Brigade from Whitecross-street Station arrived on the spot with a steamer. Brief as had been the interval, however, between the discovery of the fire and the arrival of the engine, the flames had had sufficient time to gain firm hold, and it was from the first apparent that all that could be done by the firemen was to try and prevent the flames from spreading to the adjacent property. Assistance was telegraphed for to all parts of the metropolis, and within 40 minutes of the first alarm, which was given at 2.50, no less than 30 steamers, besides a number of manuals, were pouring water into the burning building. Captain Shaw arrived shortly after three, and during the whole of the night his exertions were incessant to try and save some portion of the block from destruction. About 3.30 the fire of Messrs. Foster and Porter's warehouse fell with a crash, and simultaneously a huge sheet of flame shot upwards illuminating the streets for miles around, and showers of sparks, carried on the southerly wind, appeared to threaten the property on the other side of Abchurch-lane. At this period it was discovered that, despite the attempts of the firemen to isolate the burning warehouse, and despite the favourable direction of the wind, which carried the sparks away from the part of the block occupied by Messrs. Rylands and Silber and Fleming, it was discovered that the premises of the Manchester warehousemen had caught fire, and the inflammable nature of the materials stored at once suggested the progress of the flames. The fire had been burning for some time before the firemen were able to isolate the burning warehouse, and despite the favourable direction of the wind, which carried the sparks away from the part of the block occupied by Messrs. Rylands and Silber and Fleming, it was discovered that the premises of the Manchester warehousemen had caught fire, and the inflammable nature of the materials stored at once suggested the progress of the flames.

The fire had been burning for some time before the firemen were able to isolate the burning warehouse, and despite the favourable direction of the wind, which carried the sparks away from the part of the block occupied by Messrs. Rylands and Silber and Fleming, it was discovered that the premises of the Manchester warehousemen had caught fire, and the inflammable nature of the materials stored at once suggested the progress of the flames.

Rylands' warehouse, facing London Wall, also fortunately remained intact, its strong stone walls and fire-proof roof proving its salvation. About half-past seven the entire wall of the commodious buildings in Wood-street fell outward with a terrific crash, damaging the warehouse opposite, but doing no further injury, the street having been cleared. At nine o'clock the engines were still playing on the fire, which continued to burn fiercely in some places, but the fury of the flames was now practically expended. No accidents were reported involving serious injury or loss of life. There were a few persons sleeping on the premises, most of them in the capacity of caretakers, but all were rescued safely. The damage is estimated at between two and three million sterling.

THE LATE MR. ANTHONY TROLLOPE.

Our readers will hear with deep regret of the death of Mr. Anthony Trollope. Seized suddenly at the dinner-table, only a very few weeks ago, with something in the nature of a paralytic attack, from the first anxiety attack, from the first anxiety attack, from the first anxiety attack, from the first anxiety attack, from the first
